The Rev. Dr. Baird remained in charge of the little Edmonton Church until August, 1910, when he was turned over his duties as Presbyterian minister and Protestant public school inspector to the Rev. D. G. MacQueen, now better known as Dr. MacQueen. He has long and honorable service in connection with the Presbyterian church in this city, which he had seen grow under his ministry from a small village building to a splendid metropolitan edifice. It may be said in regard to the Old Timers that after all the years that have passed, they have made the determination that other men have today. That is true, but it is the men who have sufficient sense to get these things together in the same spot at the same time for the same purpose that are the first and the foremost, and that move on the progress of the times.

Loyal Order of Moose to Give Concert Tomorrow

Band Will be Under New Leader, Mr. Otto Lehnerh Solo Cornetist With Imperial Guard Band of Germany— Allan Wilson Soloist.

The band of the Loyal Order of Moose will give an especially fine concert tomorrow evening in the Empress theatre, commencing sharp at half-past eight o'clock. The band will be under the leadership of Mr. Otto Lehnerh, whose services the order have been fortunate enough to secure.

Mr. Lehnerh has been in this country since 1898, when he came over as solo cornetist with the Imperial Guard band of Germany to play at the Chicago exposition. He has played in the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra, with John Phillips Sousa, and in the Rough Riders' band, which saw service in the Spanish-American war. Mr. Lehnerh was assistant leader of the Imperial Guard band in Washington, D.C., and has organized bands in San Francisco, Phoenix and Los Angeles. He is the special staff of organization and under his leadership the Moose band will make excellent progress.

Tomorrow's program will be as follows:

1. March—"The Double Eagle" (Wagner).
2. Overture—"Martha" (Flotow).
3. Solo—"Heart Murmurs" (Hofe).
4. Tenor solo—"The Bird is My Neighbor" (L. Allan Wilson).
5. (a) "My Cousin Gus" (Gus Edwards).
- (b) "The Hoosier Slide" (Hilliards).
6. Selection—"Il Trovatore" (Verdi).
- Baritone solo, Mr. Daly.
7. Tenor solo—"Till Dawn" (Loewe).
- Mr. Allan Wilson.
8. March—"Eleven O'clock Toast" (Winstedt).
- End and the King.

An exceptionally large turn-out of Moose is expected.

Boston Has Street Matron for Girls Who Are Adrift

Appointment Made by Society Famous for its Rescue Work—The Shelter a Home, Pleasant Place Where Girls Are Given a Chance.

That it is not necessary to delay motherly oversight of the girls of the street until the city can appoint women to its police force, many of them for the first time, she believes it to be of prime importance that the boulevard rescue work be continued.

She has no intention to cool her breath and then to get a fresh grip on her self-respect. So the girls are at once made to feel that she is a friendly guest, not a inmate, of a friendly home.

When Gertrude, a college girl whose lapse was chiefly occasioned by sheer laziness, came home with Mrs. Tyler, she was met by a crowd of reporters in deference to the visitor's tastes. On their return other friends of Mrs. Tyler, who is a perfectly normal fashion, and Gertrude felt her first sense of ease among many. So Mrs. Tyler, who emphasized the beauty of enjoying those delights in a perfectly legitimate way and in companionship which left no bitter taste. But Mrs. Tyler's other friends were all workers, and Gertrude was given something to think about.

Annie, however, had known that Tyler of home life. When Mrs. Tyler picked her out from a crowd of rosy, smiling sailors, she needed physical care. Her clothes were dirty; disease and vermin riddled in her skin body. When she was clean and whole—the society's expense account provided a new outfit for her—Annie's tastes were also controlled. She knew nothing of art or music, but she did like animals. Mrs. Tyler took her to the zoo at Franklin Park.

Mrs. Tyler's activities in no way diminish her respect for the established agencies; they supplement them, and offer opportunity to exceptional women to do preventive work of exceptional value. It is significant that the organization behind Mrs. Tyler, one better known for its rescue work, has now turned its attention to prevention.

While generalization is difficult because each girl has her own peculiarities, it is safe to say that the Shelter is possibly the most effective institution.

She is a friend to girls and her entire formula of service is embraced in the phrase so often on her lips: "She says I was her friend." Nor is it an idle formula with Mrs. Tyler. The girls she helps are her friends; they are not cases; they are individuals who need Mrs. Tyler.

The society's back of Mrs. Tyler hampers her by no means. It furnished the apartment—named it the Shelter—and the money to run it. It provided her with a liberal expense account. Having done this, it wishes her Godspeed.

She has no board members to attend to—except as she tells of results—she is not compelled to discuss Mary or Jane or Susan with a supervisory committee. The society looks at her work and is satisfied.

While generalization is difficult because each girl has her own peculiarities, it is safe to say that the Shelter is possibly the most effective institution.

Wrinkleless Skin Now Easy to Have
(From Family Physician)

There's no excuse for any woman having wrinkles now. It has been found that a simple mixture of salicylic acid and witch hazel has a remarkable action upon the deepest wrinkles, no matter where they are, whether caused by worry, habitual frowning, or other causes. This harmless remedy, which anyone can easily make, obtains the ingredients of any drug store, acts both as an astringent and a tonic. The combined effect of tightening the skin and brightening its vitality is to immediately affect every line and wrinkle, keeping the cuticle smooth and firm as in youth.

The proportions are one ounce salicylic (powdered) to one-half pint witch hazel. The salicylic should be used as a wash lotion. It is equally effective in disposing of flabbiness of cheek and neck, as well as sagging below the eyes.

DRIFTWOOD

It was something very sweet and comforting after hearing the crusty old man next door scolding the boys for shouting in their game of ball, it was very sweet, I say, to turn to the slender red book with its legend in blue ink, "Will of Lounsbury" and read therein what this supposedly insane lawyer bequeathed in his will to boys.

"I devise to boys," he said, "jointly all the idle fields and commons, where ball may be played, all places of waters where one may swim, all snowed hills where one may coast, and streams and ponds where one may fish, or where, when winter comes, one may skate, to have and to hold the same for the period of their boyhood. And all the meadows, with the clover blossoms and butterflies thereof, the woods with their appurtenances, the squirrels and birds and echoes and strange noises, and all distinct places which may be visited, together with the adventures there to be found. And I give to said boys each one of the above as a trust, to be held with all the pictures that may be seen in the burning wood, to enjoy withal, and without any incumbrance of care."

The other day while I was waiting in one of the shops, I heard a young woman next to me telling the clerk, who was sitting gloves on her of the unpardonable rudeness of some of the men. They have the most insolent way of staring! She was grinning and saying:

She was a very attractive young woman dressed in the extreme of fashion. Her gown was a long black clinging silk dress, made so narrow around the hem that her walk was a creep, and her hat was an enormous affair fitted rakishly on a mass of pretty fluffed out hair. Why she didn't have a professional following, I am more than can imagine. The French woman whose style she was aping would have been insulted if she did not receive the attention this Betty evidently resented. Why put the blame in the wrong place?

After all, you know there isn't anything so very wrong in a man looking at an attractive woman, and she is naturally coy. Women who wear extreme styles must expect that they will be stared at. It is the duty of the way. If they were honest with themselves wouldn't they admit that they lived to see the "naughty"?

If you are sensitive to notice then so about your business. Dress sensibly, and appear rational, and no matter where or when it be, you will receive nothing but courtesy. Show men what you expect and you will get nothing else. Don't give a certain impression and then be indignant that you are misinterpreted.

"Modern American woman is more wonderful than the telephone, than the automobile, than the aeroplane. Quite the most remarkable feature of the last 25 years has been the progress of woman, and I do not believe she has yet reached the end of her achievement."

This is Mrs. Amelia E. Barr's summary of the last three-quarters of a century. She also says:

"The disappearance of the old maid is one of the most notable signs of the progress of woman. I do not know of any happier person than some of my bachelor women friends. They have their own homes, their social life. They are loved, respected, admired. They exercise dominion over the domestic regard which always attached itself to the 'woman who couldn't get married.'"

"A part of woman's progress consists in her being able to keep herself from being cheated, or by her individual shrewdness or by her working together with her sisters."

"If I have any criticism at all for them it's that they have the trump card in their hands and haven't yet used it. Let them get together and strike on marriage and motherhood! Let them refuse to cook dinners and rock the cradles! Let them man the world to come to terms."

"Do I think the progress of women is in any way hurting them or spoiling their femininity?"

LATEST STYLES IN SUMMER GOWNS

EDITED BY MAY MANTON

FASHION stands in a rather interesting situation just now. At its best, it is really attractive and beautiful but it is being pushed to extremes by certain unthinking women and these extremes call down censure by no means undesired. Neat wares fabrics as beautiful as they are well handled, they can not fail to give charming results. The season is one of brilliant color, as has been said again and again; but colors appear in bits and touches rather than in any aggressive form. White gowns with brilliant sashes and hats trimmed to match are noted at all of our gatherings and there is also a tendency to have the parasols made to match the gowns so that the complete toilette, matching in every detail, makes a somewhat important feature of the summer.

color in the trimming or embroidery

Undoubtedly, narrow skirts are fashionable but let no one imagine that the grotesque absurdities exploited under the name of fashion are worn by the really well dressed. Grotesque effects can not be smart and exaggeration of prevailing lines brings about just that result. Draped skirts are constantly appearing in new forms. There are very few seams in the up-to-date gown, for the edges are apt to be overlapped. These overlapped edges when prettily curved often provide needed freedom for the feet and give a really pretty effect. The deep slashes that have been so unfortunately exploited by a few never could be good style. It would be a thousand pities to cast dispare upon what is really good and desirable.

THE gown that is made with a peplum blouse marks a rather important feature. The peplum gives somewhat the suggestion of a waist and consequently the gown is a comfortable one to wear upon the street and yet it is really a blouse, perfectly adapted to indoor wear. The two materials used greatly enhance its charm for they accentuate the essential lines. The little chemise being made over a plain foundation can be of accordion plaited chiffon in this instance, or plain and of lace or all-over embroidery or any similar material. The skirt that is worn with the blouse consists of just two pieces, the back being draped and the front made slightly full. The lines are all pretty and the entire costume is a most effective one. In the front view, it is made of white charmeuse satin with trimming of a flowered silk. In the back view, it is made of figure and plain foulard.

THE young girl's costume shows striped voile in one view and white linen in the other. The frock is a very pretty one giving all the smartest features without any disagreeable exaggeration. The panel effect at the front and at the back of the skirt give long lines. The side gores are each laid in a tuck. In the case of the striped material, they have been cut in sections and the reversed stripes always give a good effect. The treatment gives something of the tunic idea yet there is only the one thickness. The length of the sleeves seems to be entirely a matter of choice this summer and each one of us is free to choose the length we like best. Girls with pretty wrists and fore-arms will like the three-quarter length best but there are long sleeves that can be used. The voile frock is trimmed with heavy antique lace and worn with a girle of Cuban silk. The linen frock is trimmed with Cluny lace and is worn with a girle of soft, plain colored ribbon which matches the hair bow.

THE pretty blouse that is shown in two such distinctly different ways is very daintily charming yet perfectly simple withal. On the fitting figure, it is made of chiffon, and lace is applied beneath but, in the back view, it is shown made of a simple dotted marquette with collar and cuffs of lace. This blouse seems to include so many new features that it calls for very special mention. This yoke that is extended over the shoulders is a distinctly new line and the veiled trimming is to be found in the newest and handsomest costumes. The soft girle of velvet ribbon with the upstanding frill that is shown on one frock is a novelty and one that is much liked. Frills are ubiquitous; they appear everywhere. The finish of the girle makes one of the newest uses. The skirt is in just two pieces with the drapery a little higher at the back than at the front and with the edges overlapped. These lapped edges always afford an opportunity for the use of buttons and button, let it be added, were never so beautiful, never so varied, never more useful. Some of them are really works of art and even the simpler ones show clever handling of colors and materials. Embroidered buttons are to be noted upon a great many handsome costumes. Since they do not represent any great amount of labor and are in the height of style as well as handsome in effect, it is well to bear the fact in mind. For the gown that are to be washed or cleaned, moulds or foundations make no difference. The tendency is toward contrast so that the lightest materials with heavy lace, and Cluny, Irish and antique lace are liked for the very thin fabrics, such as voile, marquette and net, and the lovely shadow and Valenciennes laces for the familiar lawn and batiste.

IT is a foregone conclusion that little girls' costumes will follow closely in the trend of their mothers. What is fashionable for the mother reappears in the daughter's dress, although it may be modified. The little finger frock that is shown in the picture is trimmed to give a tunic suggestion. The result is a very dressy and even elaborate little frock, yet the foundation is eminently simple—a straight plain little blouse with the sleeves sewed to its armholes. The trimming completely transforms it. With the girls as well as their elders, sleeves can be of any preferred length, but on really warm days, the elbow sleeves and square neck make a very charming finish. One can think of this dress made from voile, marquette, crepe de chine or even of chiffon or net; in fact, simple white cotton net is a favorite material for girls' dresses and white net made just in this way with a change of slips would give the effect of several costumes in place of one. All white with just the dash of color gives a very dainty effect. White over a colored slip with sash to match is charming. Some of the faded rose shades are lovely for such use, blue is always pretty, some of the green shades are lovely and the yellow shades are very fashionable. The tendency is toward contrast so that the lightest materials with heavy lace, and Cluny, Irish and antique lace are liked for the very thin fabrics, such as voile, marquette and net, and the lovely shadow and Valenciennes laces for the familiar lawn and batiste.

FASHIONS are not created they grow was the statement made by the head of a leading style house her the other day and there is so much truth and so much food for consideration in the remark that it seems worthy of repetition. I have just been turning over the pages of a little book showing the fashions of the nineteenth century and, looking at them one after another in their sequence, it is easy to see how each was evolved from the last. Very rarely indeed do radical changes occur from one season to the next. Even when actually new influence is at work it is modified by prevailing conditions. Those who have studied fashions with care realize that almost every mode has three years of life; that is to say, it is introduced in the first, it is worked up to the highest stage in the second, it is modified in the third and then it must give place to the next idea. Undoubtedly, it is time to be looking for indications of a change in the present silhouette and the next autumn may see variations of one sort and another; but we will wear narrow skirts for a considerable period yet and the general slenderness of outline will remain. Some of the newest models rather emphasize the wide effect below the hips that produces the "oval" talked in the late spring but whatever else may or may not come about, scanty clothing appears likely to retain its hold.

FROM Paris comes the news that at the races which are always indicative of the newest modes, and lace is exceedingly well liked treated in this way. Again tulle is a favorite material of the summer and tulle is absolutely so diaphanous and without bulk that it is possible to use considerable fullness without appreciable bulk or width. Exceedingly beautiful gowns are made with foundations of the softest possible mousseline over which are arranged three over-lapping tunics of tulle edged with the finest lace and, since lace is too beautiful in itself to be draped, these tunics hang in straight, simple, unbroken lines. Net of the more durable sort than tulle is exceedingly smart and much used and three-flounced skirts of the softest net are made very charmingly with little soft ruffles of the material edging each flounce. We see wonderful effects in printed tulle, too, that give lovely flowered borders and hand-painted chiffon tunics are worn by women who can afford such luxury; but, in spite of all the variety, notwithstanding the opportunity for individuality, the silhouette remains the same.

THERE has been a great tendency toward the use of dainty shoes and, in the house or for the carriage, French women are using low shoes with ribbons laced about the ankles much after the manner of the Greek. Some daring designer has introduced the genuine Greek sandals to be worn with bare feet. There have been a few on exhibition here in old Gotham and the latest news from across the sea asserts that one woman was bold enough to appear in such at Antwerp. Since modern feet are not remarkable for beauty, having been deformed for generations by the wearing of fashionable shoes, the idea is scarcely an attractive one from any point of view.

Farmers Hold Picnic—The annual picnic under the auspices of the Clover Bar and East Clover Bar branches of the U. T. P. A. was held in Brainerd yesterday. An excellent sports program was carried out and a thoroughly successful day spent. The Hon. Frank Oliver, former minister of the Interior, emphasized the importance of the work of the farmer in building up the community. The subject of co-operation among farmers was dealt with by George Bevinton, director of the U. T. P. A., who stated that the people of the west had co-operated with the railways in obtaining transportation facilities, but when it came to profit sharing, the railways took everything, leaving nothing for the farmers. W. P. Stevens, live stock commissioner, emphasized the importance of mixed farming and referred to its development within the province. The policy adopted by the dominion government in granting $30,000,000 to the C.N.R. and the G.T.P., and at the same time raising $1,000,000 to the farmers for highways, was denounced by William Hall, Salsbury.

Many Prizes to Edmonton—Alexander Gilbrath, Edmonton, was the reserve grand champion at the Dominion fair at Brandon yesterday, with his horse Charnier. With the same animal, Mr. Gilbrath took the special record prize offered for Clydesdale stallions of any age. The reserve special prize for the best Percheron stallion was carried off Mr. Gilbrath, with his well known horse (Daron). Given also took special prize offered by the Percheron Society of America. Among other Alberta exhibitors who met with success yesterday were Leo Shakerly, of Wetaskiwin, who took the special reserve prize offered by the Canadian Shire Horse association for stallions of that breed. W. E. and H. C. Upper, Calgary, were awarded the reserve special prize for percheron females.

Hundred and First Parade—Until further orders it company of the 101st regiment will parade on Tuesday and Friday evenings.

Undertaking Concern Accuses—A charge of fraudulently obtaining money from the Wetaskiwin Undertaking company, Ltd., was made against A. Stewart Watt, former secretary-treasurer of the company, before justices of the Peace McLean and Shantz, at Wetaskiwin yesterday. At a recent meeting of the company, it was decided to appoint Alexander Knox secretary-treasurer. Mr. Watt, however, maintained that the meeting was illegal, and refused to quit office. On Monday last, Mr. Knox endeavored to collect an account from a customer at Leduc, but found that he had been forestalled by Mr. Watt, who had had the account paid to him several days before. The directors then decided to take legal action against Mr. Watt for misappropriation of funds. The accused was remanded to the next court of competent jurisdiction.

New Liberal Club Rooms—The rooms of the new South Edmonton Liberal club in the new McLaughlin building on Whyte avenue, will be officially opened on Tuesday. While this meeting marks the official opening, it will be a very informal affair, no special effort being made to arrange a heavy program. A bigger and more important meeting will be held on August 6, when a program of speeches by prominent liberals will be given. The club has a membership of about 155.

Welsh Picnic Monday—The Welsh people of the city will hold a picnic on the Grosz flat on Monday afternoon. Tea will be served on the ground, but people are requested to bring their own dishes. A program of sports and games has been arranged for the officials, and it will be the duty of the sports as follows: Judges Wm. Price, E. E. Davis, and William Hogg; referee, E. E. Davis; started, H. Williams; clerk of the course, D. J. Hughes; committee, E. Buckley, W. Richards, and Hughes.

The tunnel will pass under the lane at the back of the store, and, according to the city requirements, must not come within 12 inches of the surface.

PULP INDUSTRY WOULD SUCCEED IN ALBERTA

Vast stretch of Timber Between Ground and Peace River Crossed Would Be Very Suitable

That there is a vast stretch of timber between the ground and Peace River Crossing which would keep an up-to-the-minute pulp mill going for years, was the statement made to the Capital this morning by H. Milton Martin, who recently returned from a trip to Hudson's Hope.

Mr. Martin in discussing the possibilities offered for the manufacture of pulp in this section of Alberta, stated that there were thousands of acres of the best timber in the aforementioned district that has not yet been cut. Hundreds of the trees tower to a height of 150 feet, clean and straight, and with an average diameter of 13 inches.

With the depletion of the timber south of the line, the pulp companies are even now seeking new deals, and Mr. Martin expressed the opinion this time of industry would be established on a firm foundation in Central Alberta.

GOOD BILLS AT THE LOCAL PLAYHOUSES

PLAYLET WILL BE HEADLINER AT PANTAGES

"The Devil, the Servant and the Man" is Title of Dramatic Sketch on Vaudeville Bill

VIRGINIA THORNTON ARDENT BALL FAN

All She Wants is Soap Box and Pass and She'll Go Anywhere to See Game.

For the week commencing August 1 the Pantages will offer as a headlining attraction an intensely interesting dramatic playlet entitled "The Devil, the Servant and the Man." This will be presented by Charles L. Gill, manager of the theatre, who has been requested to show the act in Edmonton at the request of several friends who happened to see the sketch in the United States at the time when Mr. Gill and his company were touring from coast to coast. In New York city the playlet had a run of several weeks. In Chicago Mr. Gill and his company met with remarkable success, and while touring the coast cities the theatres were packed at every performance.

The facts in the case of the playlet will not be unknown to Edmonton theatre goers. Mr. Gill himself will play the part of The Man, his wife, Miss De Wolfe, will take a very prominent part. Irwin Cook, one of the leading actors of the Toronto stock company, will portray the role of The Devil, and Grant Churchill will be seen as The Servant.

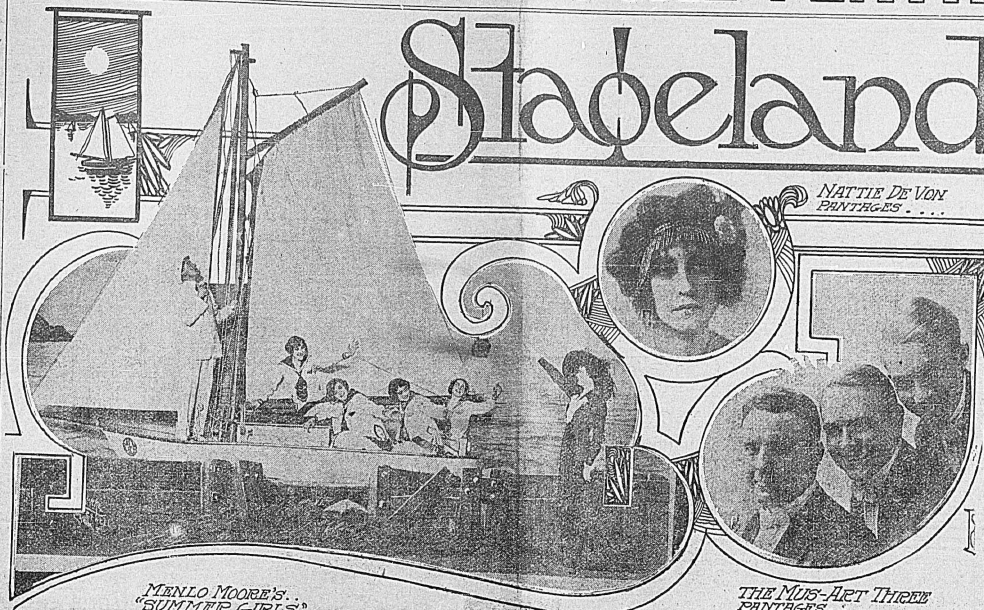

A Baseball Fan. Virginia Thornton, who comes to the Pantages next week in "The Councilor," is one of the most enthusiastic baseball fans that ever stepped into a ball ground. When a ball game is being played and Miss Thornton misses it, then it is because she is unable to crawl.

Miss Thornton arrived in the city during the week with the rest of the company, and when she heard that Edmonton and Calgary were playing, nothing could keep her away from Diamond park.

"Anyone that will furnish me with a soap box to sit on and a pass to the grounds is my reporter," said the young actress to a reporter.

The other lead in the act, Charles King, is also an enthusiastic fan of the game. Mr. King is also a boxer and makes his fists about as well as the best one. On the day that Miss Thornton was introduced to Mr. King by her father, the latter said, "I've taught her how to use the gloves, Charlie."

"My kid," said King behind his hand, "come down to the gymnasium next morning and I'll teach you how to kick out the old man."

OLD TIME DRAMA BILL AT LYCEUM

Toronto Stock Company to Present Thelma at Jasper Avenue Playhouse.

LYCEUM—"THELMA." Sir Philip Eslington, James Boyd, George Lorimer, E. G. Edwards, Valdemar Stevenson, Frank Tresselt, Olaf Gudmar, Barrow Le Paige, Sigurd, E. G. Edwards, Sir Francis Lennox, William Yule, Rev. Mr. Dyce, William Yule, Briggs, Grace Aylesworth, Thelma, Emily Selwyn, Brita, Hazel Stone, Lady Winifred, Mario Davidson, Violet Vere, Marie Davidson, Louisa.

Old time dramas being among the best hot weather offerings, Manager Aylesworth, of the Lyceum theatre, has chosen "Thelma," the well-known drama of the Land of the Midnight Sun, as the offering next week at the Lyceum. Besides giving the various members of the Toronto stock company excellent opportunities for good acting, is essentially a scenic bill, for it involves the use of more scenery than probably any play presented at the Lyceum this season.

The plot of this famous old play is known by almost every school girl and boy, and in novelized form the pathetic story of the daughter of the Norseman, Gudmar, stands out almost as plainly as it does in the excellent dramatized version in use next week by the Toronto players. The members of the Lyceum stock crew will have ample opportunities to show their hand at dividing gorgeous light effects and scenery adaptable to drama with Norway as the usual locale of the best acts of the offering.

Matinee are played at the Lyceum every Wednesday and Saturday.

Matinee Girl and the Professor, they perform most gracefully, and dress their act in an attractive and appropriate manner.

Under the caption "Musical Vagabonds" the Trio stages an entertaining and agreeable musical act, embodying vocal and instrumental numbers in abundance. They are all proficient entertainers and put over their selections with taste and judgment.

The Trio Muller Trio have a genuine novelty to offer in their hoop-rolling, a knack which they have dignified and developed until it has become an art. They have practiced throwing, too, until the circles can describe curves in the air with a brilliant act, full of motion and life.

BARROW LE PAIGE, TORONTO PLAYERS, AT LYCEUM.

Time Has Passed When Anything Will go With Western Audiences

Next Season West Will See Really Big, Praiseworthy Productions—Last Week's Vaudeville Bills Were Especially Good at Both Theatres—Thelma at Lyceum.

Dire rumors as to theatrical conditions in the West have been rife lately on Broadway and in New York managerial offices, with the result that there has been some hesitancy in routing attractions this way. Your theatrical manager is a timid creature as a rule, and the greater his lack of actual knowledge of affairs, the greater usually is his timidity. That all attractions have not fared equally well is admitted not with reluctance but with alacrity, and the reasons have been a credit to the patrons of the playhouses. There has been no diminution of interest in the theatre, but there has been an exercise of discrimination in patronage. Western audiences were exploited for two or three seasons

BLACKIE KICKED HIS OWN SHADOW

Ethel Chatterton One of Menie Moore's Summer Time Girls Owned a Pet Pony

The father of Ethel Chatterton, who is one of Menie Moore's Summer Time girls at the Pantages next week, once owned a big farm in Massachusetts. Miss Chatterton was about the farm as much as she was in the city, and among her numerous pets there was a coal black horse named "Blackie."

Blackie's favorite game with his mistress was hide and seek, which he liked to play at evening in his stable, where the reflectors behind the lights cast weird shadows about the place. In pursuing this interesting game Miss Chatterton would sit behind a post in the stall and sometimes under an inverted barrel until the horse, nosing about, would locate her, when he would stand and whinny until she came out.

One evening, in searching for her, Blackie saw his shadow evidently for the first time. For a moment he gazed at it intently, then tried putting his head first on one side, then on the other, and even tried to bite it, and when this performance failed to obtain desired results he wheeled about, gave a snort of indignation and kicked at it with both feet. Then, perfectly satisfied that he had worsted the thing, whatever it was, he calmly resumed his search for his mistress, who had watched the proceedings from behind a post.

Cautious Girl.

"I thought you and Edith were going to be married this year, Jack?" "I thought so, too, but I guess not."

"Edith says I must just remember it is leap year."

"What has that got to do with it?" She says do I suppose she wants people to think that she corralled and lassoed me?"

BLANCHE WALSH PLAYING IN EMOTIONAL PLAYLET

Will Be at Empire Next Week in Orpheum Vaudeville Bill—"The Countess Nadine" Is Title of Her Sketch—Other Acts Complete a Strong Bill.

An offering of rare significance to help materially in making the turn the lovers of vaudeville will be seen at the Empire theatre the first half of next week as a feature of the Orpheum program, when Blanche Walsh comes as the headliner. Besides being one of the greatest emotional actresses on the American stage, Miss Walsh has already made somewhat of an impression in the brief time allotted to any vaudeville entertainer, as can be testified to by the thousands who saw her last season in "The Thunder Gods."

An Indian playlet that required a capable woman to present properly. This year she has chosen "The Countess Nadine," an emotional playlet from the pen of Joseph Golden. It is a Nihilist sketch, and teems with good lines and cleverly devised situations. Miss Walsh brings with her a capable supporting company. Dear remembered for their amusing skit, "On and Off," Flanagan and Edwards are coming back in "Off and On," a sequel to their former popular character turn. It is a pep behind the scenes of the average vaudeville theatre, where the troubles of a son and dancer team both on and off the stage are recited.

A Juggling Act.

The names of Redford and Winchester stand for the very best in juggling. Their names are familiar all over the globe, inasmuch as they have recently completed a tour which took them to such far-off spots as India, Ceylon, Australia, the Fiji Islands and Hawaii, not to mention every nook and corner of Europe and America.

An extremely accomplished violinist as well as a talented vocalist, Charlotte Ravanscroft is known as one of the most gifted young women on the stage today. She combines her two accomplishments in a delightful manner. Her charming personality and appearance

HERE MAY BE HAD ADVANTAGES OF VERY RICH SOIL

There are full stories of those who have tried and succeeded; numerous headlines are written and circulated, describing the footprints of the land hungry back to the soil; but there is no more popular report today than that which teaches the truths of agriculture. College are turning out students in thousands, learned in the science of the soil. The education of three young men—and young women, for there are many young women who attend agricultural colleges—is directed especially toward farming processes; when they graduate from their college this is what they know: all the sufficient attention is also given to academic courses to make these young men and women well balanced students. But their manifold training is to do things on farms and with farms; they are trained and taught with that object in view.

Turned to Alberta
Naturally the eyes of such people as these are turned toward Alberta; it may be that many of them will go to other parts of Western Canada but Alberta is well to the forefront among the last places of the earth which are left to the pioneer and agriculture. These young men have money—enough money—any farms in the other sections of the earth but there they are obliged to pay thousands of dollars for improvements made by their predecessors and some of these improvements will be of very doubtful value. The only farm center of the population is land which has been deemed too poor for others to take up or land which has been farmed until it is run out. Abandoned farms are numerous in many sections of the United States and gay stories of young men and young women who have done marvelously well with these abandoned farms from the wealth of scientific farming methods are written. A good deal may be said with truth of the value of scientific farming but the instances in which this has been applied to the abandoned farms in New England, for instance, with success, are so few that men well versed in the farming history of that part of the United States have never come to even one case of this kind. On the other hand, they know of hundreds of farmers that are making a poor living and of farmers who regularly fail behind each year. It is not strange that these people should turn toward Alberta as a refuge from their troubles of poverty stricken soil, crowded cities, swollen cities, famine-like factories and all the ills which come of congested population and the precarious profits of farming on land which requires an outlay for fertilizer after every crop in which is received for the crop.

Good Soil for Work
The farmer in Alberta buys his land for $15 or $20 an acre. If it is not proved, or from $25 to $100 an acre, if improvements have been made upon it.

It. To try go out and homestead and set 160 acres of splendid land for an entry fee of $10 and compliance with the homestead regulations of residence and improvement. These requirements are not harsh but it is sometimes cheap to buy land this to meet them. In all cases, the man who chooses to farm in Alberta gets good soil at a low cost; soil that requires no fertilizer and produces excellent crops at a minimum outlay of labor. If the Alberta farmer elects to do dairying, truck farming, or to raise stock, swine, sheep or poultry, he is equally favored and finds it easy to get feed for his animals or ready market for his produce in the city of what sort it may. There is genuine shortage, and other things that are easily produced in this province and soil prices are always to be obtained. This condition is well set forth in a letter taken by Mr. Hunter of the Swift, Canadian company to an Edmonton audience.

Speaking at a luncheon of the Edmonton M. Men's club Mr. Hunter said: "Edmonton is destined to be the center of the great meat and fur district in Canada. Conditions have changed during the last few years and Alberta, the country that has been gradually been converted into quarter sections. "The ranch being crowded out has necessarily reduced the cattle receipts, and today, instead of exporting to Eastern Canada and English markets, they are obliged to import from beef from the east. Prior to this, last year, we have been forced to rely on Eastern Canadian and Australian markets, but during the past supply season, with the exception of some 10,000 head from Southern Alberta."

Hog Raising Profitable
"Hog raising has proved very profitable to the local farmers of late, and as a result the production has increased greatly. That year we expect to meet our increased trade demands by importing only 1,500,000 pounds of eastern hogs, as against 2,000,000 pounds of the 3,000,000 pounds brought in last year. Good prices and broader markets, combined with a suitable climate, have turned the attention of the central and northern Alberta farmer to the mixed farming industry. "The cities and towns have been faster than the rural districts, consequently the local supply of produce has not been sufficient to meet the trade requirements. Last year we had to import from Eastern Canada and the States, practically 1,200,000 pounds of creamery butter, 300,000 dozen eggs, 160,000 pounds of dressed poultry and 255,000 pounds of cheese. This condition should not exist because Alberta, with low priced land for grazing purposes, should be exporting rather than importing produce. "The trade here and the farmer and dairyman can rest assured that there will always be a market for their production. With the vast non-productive country on the west, now being developed, the produce outlets will be greater than even the most sanguine Edmonton optimist can imagine. You push their end of the stick, the conditions existing, the great opportunities for mixed farming."

These facts are becoming known; persistent publicity has placed them before the people of other places and those people are coming to know that Central Alberta—far better than the west—was known a few years ago.

Alberta Singularly Blessed.
These conditions make strongly for the agricultural welfare of Alberta and the welfare of any country relying upon the soil for its base, they make for the commercial, industrial, and social welfare of this province. In Alberta is singularly blessed with agricultural riches and it only requires good management, energy and a proper exercise of sound immigration methods to secure the very cream of the agricultural people of the earth for this province. It is one of the functions of the Edmonton Industrial Commissioner's department to do as much as possible toward the very desirable end of getting as many farmers as may be had to come to Central Alberta. It is the aim, too, of the department to set up intimate relations established between the department and every town in the Edmonton district so that the closest co-operation may be maintained and the best work done.

RECORD MADE IN BUILDING PERMITS

Kelowna Has a Fine Showing Up-to-Date—New Railway Facilities Soon.

Kelowna, B. C., July 26.—The building inspector reported at the weekly meeting of the city council, that, during the period between January 1 and June 30th of this year, building permits had been granted, totaling $277,543.00. This showed a net gain for the year period of last year of 147 per cent, and is the highest percentage of increase shown by any town in the Canadian West, and only bettered by one other in the whole Dominion.

Mr. J. A. Warren, President of the Kelowna Valley Railroad, also stated at the meeting of the Board of Trade executives that this line would be in operation through to Vancouver by next spring. This will enable passengers or freight trains leaving Kelowna in the late afternoon to arrive in Vancouver the following morning.

WILL PUSH LINE THROUGH WEYBURN

Grand Trunk Pacific Going to Extend Its Lines West to the West This Year.

Weyburn, Sask., July 26.—The intention of the Grand Trunk Pacific to push their line through Weyburn is considerably further west this year is evident from the fact that the grade lines running into the town. The grade from Talmage to the town limits is now completed and ready for use. But some slight delay has been caused in the construction of the line through the town owing to an error regarding the right of way on the part of the company's engineers. This is now being rectified and it is expected that the line to grade together with the bridge of the river and the placing of the trestle over the two lines of the C. P. R. will be completed within the next week or two. Under arrangement with the provincial government, the company is to construct not less than 50 miles of line this year, which would take the branch to a point about 35 miles west of the town.

CERTIFICATES ARE FOUND WORTHLESS

Regina City's Guarantee That Property is Clear of Taxes Is Valueless.

Regina, July 26.—The city's tax certificates are not worth the paper they are written upon, unless the city can guarantee against errors made by a civic official. The same was made clear yesterday, namely that he did not think the city could be held responsible. That such a state of affairs was a very unsatisfactory one from the point of view of the man who purchases a tax certificate from the city was the general consensus of opinion. At the meeting of the committee the matter was referred back to the city solicitor for his opinion as to the city's liability for errors made by a civic official. The same was made clear yesterday, namely that he did not think the city could be held responsible.

REGINA WILL SUE MERCHANTS BANK

Going to Institute Legal Action to Recover Accrued Interest on Issue.

Regina, July 26.—The city will take legal action against the Merchants' Bank of Canada to recover the sum of $2,324.70 for accrued interest on account of September last year on a debenture issue, which the bank, as purchaser of the issue refused to pay. This was the decision of the finance committee and the city solicitor will be spreading over immediately put the machinery of the law in motion.

The company tendered on the issue in May, 1912. Their tender was accepted and the last of the batch was delivered to them in September last. The bank refused to pay the accrued interest beyond August 1, claiming that delivery should have been made before that date and that the city was an undue length of time in having the issue printed.

The fourth batch, starting the recommendation of the commissioners said that they had gone into the whole question thoroughly and were convinced that the Merchants' Bank was legally and morally entitled to pay the whole amount. It took four months from the date of acceptance of the contract until delivery was made. The bank found the time for the period after looking up the records of previous sales. The bank, he stated, decided that they would settle the account if they are given an opportunity to bid on the next situation, but he had made a mistake in that they did not intend to assist the city in making its last delivery of stock.

The commissioners made application to the bank for payment they had been referred to the city solicitor, but the bank refused to have any further correspondence with the city on this question.

REGINA WELFARE BUREAU UPTIGHT

Young Man from United States Who Went Hungry Is Found Employment.

Regina, July 26.—Arrived in Regina with hot irons in his pocket and ready to go on a strike for a while as an act of protest against the plight of a young American gold miner who had been driven out of the country by the Regina Bureau of Public Welfare have taken up and "who have assisted in finding a situation. This young man came to Regina with the understanding that there were lots of good jobs to be had in the city, but when he arrived in the city, however, he found himself in a strange predicament, with a few cents in his pocket and no place to go. Applying at this office of the Public Welfare Association, he was referred to the city solicitor, who in turn, after giving him a good dinner, helped him to bring his trunk from the station, and in the bargain, was successful, as they have also been in helping dozens of other people. Having a knowledge of farm work, the situation was secured for him on a farm at Simla, and he left the city yesterday to go to work.

The Public Welfare Bureau have a number of desirable men, who they would like to place in good positions, among the number, being two married men who have applied for assistance recently. The one gentleman is a Scotchman and he and his wife are prepared to go on a farm if such a position could be secured for them. The other man has been an accountant for a real estate firm, and is seeking another position. Two young men, just here from the States, are open for engagement as clerks.

The secretary of the Bureau stated that the greatest trouble confronting the Bureau was the fact that employers, when wanting assistance do not let them know of their requirements and thus they have to sit around and seek employment for most of the people whom they are striving to help.

Since the formation of the Bureau only a few months ago, about one hundred and twenty persons have applied for situations and seventy or more of this number have been found employment.

HERESY HUNT OVER.

London, July 26.—The Jackson "heresy" controversy now has been regarded as definitely closed. Yesterday the pastoral session of the Plymouth conference having fully considered in view of the reverend gentleman decided by a vote of 326 to 17 that the book did not in the least invalidate matters of faith nor affect their standards.

JUDGE HOLDS NEWSPAPERS HAVE RIGHTS

IN EXPOSING QUESTIONABLE METHODS OF DOING BUSINESS.

A newspaper has no right to expose a business firm's methods of doing business, provided the methods of its publishers "are open to the public" and are in good faith exposing those who are oversteering the public and causing the confidence of the credulous. This was the substance of an opinion made by the city by Judge Hand in the federal court, denying a motion made by A. Street, Farm agency for an injunction restraining the Rural Publishing company from printing threats to expose the methods of its publishers. "While editors are not exempt from the common motives of men," wrote Judge Hand, "they may, and in this case did, entertain a genuine desire to help in the cause of justice as may practice upon their credulity. That is a very admirable purpose in a newspaper. The refusal of the plaintiff's advisers to long before this controversy become static is a corroboration of that motive."

CO-OPERATION IN BUILDING URGED

Plan is Advocated As Being Excellent for Rapidly Developing Sections.

Winnipeg, Man., July 26.—The establishment of co-operative building associations in Winnipeg is not among the leading recommendations embodied in the report just published by the housing committee of the best city planning commission. The report goes on to show that such societies in the old world advanced a larger proportion on the value of the property, while repayment is spread over a much longer term of years than is customary in this country.

As the working plans of these societies ensure a good standard of construction, it is believed that the idea would prove especially successful if applied in rapidly developing residential sections in and about the city such districts as Ponoma, Tuxedo and King George park being cited as instances of the possibilities along this line.

MORE FACTORIES FOR MOOSE JAW

Wholesale Hardware, Drug and Stationery Concerns Needed in City.

Moose Jaw, Sask., July 26.—Among the most active of the industries that are being advocated for Moose Jaw are wholesale hardware, drug and stationery concerns. The glove factory, a boot and shoe factory and a wagon factory. Regarding the five limited oil plants, on which progress is anticipated during the present building season, the outlook appears immensely bright in view of the fact that this enterprise from the start.

More flux is going and handled in the Moose Jaw district than in any other locality in North America, and it is even shown that flux straw containing valuable three is burned by farmers to the extent of thousands of tons annually, all of which could be utilized with proper manufacturing facilities. The new plant is to have a grinding capacity of 7,000 bushels daily.

BIG DEAL'S MADE IN SOUTH BRANDON

English Syndicate Spends $43,000 for Lots—Second Purchase by Concern.

Brandon, Man., July 26.—The sale has been recorded in Brandon of 194 lots in the southern part of the city in an English syndicate the consideration being $43,000. This marks the second purchase made by this same syndicate after a careful local investigation of conditions. Over 250 lots in this same part of the town have been sold in the past three or four months to local buyers and at the present time there are less than 250 lots in this particular part that are unsold. It is stated that owing to building activity and development under way in this section numerous inquiries have been received from both east and west and the small balance remaining will probably be disposed of.

CARDSTON FAIR IS ON BROAD LINES

Local Agricultural Exhibition Will Be Held the Week of August 19

Cardston, Alta., July 26.—The secretary of the Cardston agricultural society reports all arrangements now scheduled for the week of August 19. An entrance fee will be required from all competitors, and all exhibitors will be required to have been the personal property of the exhibitor for at least two weeks prior to the opening of the fair. Special features of the exhibition will include fine arts, home manufactures, educational work, grain in the sheaf, threaded grain, field notes, poultry, and manufactured products. The live stock exhibit is expected to be the most extensive ever shown in this section of the West, and still include horses, cattle, sheep, swine and poultry.

FINE CONDITIONS ABOUT MELFORT

Bigger and Better Than Ever Is What Is Expected of the Crop Yield.

Melfort, Sask., July 26.—The old much abused circus pseudos of "bigger and better than ever" is the only way to adequately describe the present conditions in the Melfort Loan Belt. All over the country the cry is the same—conditions couldn't be better. Grain of all kinds shows splendid growth and in many instances records are being established for the whole of the West.

The season for the local economy is now in full swing and each successive week shows an increase over the week before. The output last week of 5,067 bushels was exactly 3,017 bushels more than the output of four weeks ago.

WILL EXPLORE ROADS ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Edmonton Automobile Club
Sends Expedition to Map
Out Highway.

WILL SUBMIT GOOD
REPORT ON ROADS

Information Will Be Used in Building International and New Road Work.

The Edmonton Automobile Club is going to take an active part in the building of the transcontinental highway about which so much has been heard during the past year or two. The club is planning to send out two automobiles to explore the roads both east and west of Edmonton as far as the boundaries of the Province of Alberta. When they return the members of the party will prepare a map of the roads traversed and compile a comprehensive report and detailed statement of road conditions in the territory which they covered.

These reports will be submitted to the proper government authorities who will use it in their work in building the Alberta section of the highway. In a few days two automobiles manned by members of the Edmonton club will leave for the eastern boundary of the province. They will examine every yard of the road to ascertain the route which could be most easily and to best advantage followed by the road.

When the eastern part of the province has been covered the party will go to the west of the city covering that country right into the mountains. The roads to the west of the city are better known than those to the east and are said to be much better. The dif-

GOOD PRIZES FOR PARADE OF AUTOS

Parade of Decorated Cars
Should be One of Best
Features of Exhibition

An excellent list of prizes is being secured by the Exhibition Association for the automobile parade to be held on the opening day of the exhibition. If the number of automobiles turned out is expected the parade will be one of the best features of the entire exhibition. Already a number of auto owners have signified their intention of entering and competing in the event.

Out of the thousands of more automobiles in the city there should be at least 50 or a 100 complete. The increase in the number of cars in Edmonton during the past year has been enormous. In July last season there were not more than 500 and now it is estimated that there are between 10 and 1400.

Boulevards of the undertaking to the west will be much less than to the east. In addition to being used for the transcontinental highway the reports and maps will be useful to the government in bettering road conditions in all parts of the province. At the present time all the information which can be secured about the road conditions in the more outlying parts of the province indicates that many of the highways are almost impassable. In many places they are nothing but sloughs.

To the west of the city the land is generally higher and the roads are dry as a rule. The difficulty towards the mountains is in the roughness. The roads are strewn with rocks and have grades so steep that it is almost impossible to climb them.

Edmonton Auto. Club Will Erect Building

Has Extensive Program of Work Before it for the Remainder of the Season Says President York—In Addition to Club House Will Complete Good Roads Program.

The building of a new club house in the city is one of the plans which is being considered by the Edmonton Automobile club at the present time. The club has been organized for some time now and has a good membership. It has been doing good work in the mapping of roads and watching their condition.

"The new club building will be within easy reach of the business section of the city and will be one of the most modern club buildings in Western Canada."

The club is going to extend its efforts into a good many lines of the automobile business. Already it has taken much in the way of improving road conditions throughout the Edmonton district and Northern Alberta. It is hoped that club automobile clubs in the province will co-operate with the Edmonton club in the good roads movement and by their combined work see that Alberta has the best system of highways in the Dominion of Canada.

A Standardized Type of Automobile Now Launched

Largest Meeting of Automobile Men Ever Held Decides to Adopt Standardized Model of Motor Car.

Indianapolis, July 24.—A meeting of the most representative men in the automobile industry in Indianapolis recently, the new standardized type of automobile was formally launched. These men had been called together at the request of President J. D. Cole, originator and builder of the third and new type of automobile, and represented a total aggregate capitalization of better than $10,000,000.

The object of the conference, as outlined by President Cole, was to ascertain how best to scientifically handle the problems of volume and overhead, with the object in mind of increasing the quality of the motor car and at the same time reducing its cost to the user.

The representatives. The companies who were represented were: The Detroit Axle Co., Northway Motor & Mfg. Co., Mayfield Co., Gomer Mfg. Co., Spicer Mfg. Co., Detroit Steel Products Co., Hydraulic Press Steel Co., Jones-Stetson & Co., Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Warner Instrument Co., Stensberg Motor Devices Co., Collier-Caplan Co., Taylor Tire Pump Co., and Dayton Engineering Laboratories Co.

In opening the meeting, Homer McKee, Director of Sales and Advertising of the Cole Motor Car company, who acted as permanent chairman, said in part:

"This conference marks an epoch in the automobile industry. The great work of the automobile builder was to drive the pistons at any cost. We have now, however, arrived at a time when we must take up the conscientious study of price reduction. And, bear in mind, that at the same time we are reducing price we must be constantly increasing quality. You must represent the best that the automobile industry at this moment knows about building component parts of good motor cars."

"In the glossary of the automobile industry, specialization and quality are interchangeable. You men are specialists—each has selected for himself a problem and has mastered that problem. Each has given 100 per cent. of himself to the particular motor car unit for which society is holding him responsible. Each has earned for himself the distinction of being the recognized best in his individual line. It is to you men that the user is looking for the quality which goes into his car, and for the preservation of his bank roll."

Specialization. "No man need defend the gospel of specialization. It is generally accepted as the only avenue whereby quality can be built up and price pushed down."

"A specialist is any man who selects a single task, because nature has particularly endowed him for the fulfillment of this task, and who goes about this task whole-heartedly, allowing nothing whatsoever to interfere with the complete analysis of this task and its absolute consummation. It means something to be a specialist—it means that you have willingly accepted a difficult work and have made it say 'thine'."

It means that you have succeeded in the thing you have undertaken better than others have succeeded. This, gentlemen, is the secret of business happiness. The business man who is happy is the business man who has done his work well and who knows that his work has been done well.

"The Cole Motor Car company feels justly complimented by your presence."

MOTOR TRUCKS IN OPPOSITION TO RAILROADS

Striking Instance of Work Done by Auto Cart That Formerly Was Done
By Roads.

No more striking instance of a motor truck operating in direct competition with a railroad could be found than that of E. J. Foster, who is operating two five-ton Kissel Kar trucks in hauling lumber from the yards of the Gault lumber company in Redondo, Cal., to Los Angeles.

For motor trucks to compete with the railroad on this haul seems, at first glance, impossible. Eighty cents per ton is the railroad's charge for hauling lumber from Redondo to Los Angeles. Foster hauls six tons of lumber at a load and makes two trips a day, which, if he were working on the same basis as the railroad would bring him $8 a day.

Where the motor truck wins over the railroad, however, lies in the fact that it can deliver its load directly to the ultimate consumer, thereby eliminating at least two loadings of the lumber and the expense incident to hauling from the freight car to yards in the city and from the city yards to the job for which it is finally intended. In being able to make quick deliveries on stock which may be required for running low in the city yards, the truck possesses a value which is hard to estimate in dollars and cents, but which, often mean the difference between being able to supply a customer with lumber or losing an order. By the use of the truck the entire residues of the harbor yards are "available" on two hours' notice, as against perhaps, two days if the lumber must be shipped by railroad.

Cruelty to Motor Trucks. Many have been witness to the statement that a society for the prevention of cruelty to motor trucks would be a very real thing. In most of the time, few truck owners who use the same consideration towards a truck that a good teamster will exercise towards a fine pair of horses. As a consequence, they are making good at an exacting job, and one where errors of judgment in operating and lack of proper equipment would spell failure. He has named his trucks "Rebecca" and "Isaac," and as cows them a good treatment as cows they were creatures of flesh and blood, and not machinery.

"Motor truck manufacture and sale is rapidly setting down to business principles and a consequent survival of the fittest," says President George A. Kissel of the Kissel Kar. "Like all young industries, it is spoiled. It is swayed either much too confidently, and passing through the usual purgatory of expensive experience, has placed its place as a solid proposition, with the most important mechanical, financial and distribution problems settled."

necessarily appears, as it must. What all truck manufacturers must desire at the present time is a close interest and co-operation on the part of owners in operating and maintaining their trucks. The seller can only advise; it is up to the buyer to execute, and it is very disappointing to find proper serious study is given to load and unloading methods and other features of maintenance and operation that, properly studied, would result in greatly lessened cost and increased efficiency."
